

Range 204 Stool

Bentwood meets tubular steel in this classic among the barstools: the legs of the stool are produced from beech wood in the traditional bending process while a tubular steel ring lends additional stability to the barstool and serves as a footrest for greater seating comfort. The round seat is available as a smooth moulded seat or in an upholstered version. The robust wood and resistant cover fabric make the stool an everyday solid and sociable companion, whether at home or in restaurants.

Wooden parts in stained beech. Seat with cane work, moulded plywood seat or upholstered and covered with leather or fabric.
