

Note side table

Note table, by Lucidi Pevere, has an essential architecture of rationalist style that chooses the elegant combination between the metal and leather. Aesthetics and functionality meet and complete each other in this proposal, formally consisting of an ideal combination of three simple surfaces, each of which featuring a specific function. One of these surfaces, the central one, is entirely stitched in leather, featuring spacious accessory pockets. The sizes are extremely reduced, exalting the matters and finish. Note is in fact a small multi-purpose, light object, easy to move.
